NRA

*National Rivers Authority
North West Region*

The level of interest in environmental issues has increased enormously over recent years.

Since its establishment in September, 1989, the NRA has received many thousands of requests for information about the authority's work from members of the public, the media, students and teachers, pressure groups and MPs to name but a few.

The NRA's Public Relations Department here in the North West aims to satisfy the public's huge appetite for information about the region's water environment in a number of ways:

Leaflets: A wide range of leaflets, information sheets and fact packs are available. These explain, in detail, the different aspects of the authority's work.

Videos

A number of videos about the authority's work have also been produced and are available on free loan.

Reports

All reports compiled by the authority are available through the Public Relations Department. There is usually charge for most of these reports.

Talks

The NRA can also arrange talks on various aspects of the authority's work for a wide range of audiences.

Exhibitions

The authority also regularly takes part in shows and exhibitions in an effort to increase awareness of its role in protecting the environment.

If you need any further information about the National Rivers Authority and its work or to take advantage of the talks or video services we offer, please contact the Public Relations Department on 0925 53999.
